Agenda Items

- Showed Grant and Geethika the current application progress.
- Feedback included
  - Now that we have the functionality to move between different weeks in time for the main view, we need to have a button that will navigate to the current week no matter where in the calendar you are in time.
  - Another result of these changes, the month calendar should have the functionality to add and remove allocations taken away, so it doesn't get out of sync with the new week management functionality
- Agreed to do usability testing with a member of the team who hasn't used the application on the next visit, so we could use that to write a list of feature we would like to add to the application going forward.
- Geethika discussed using AWS templates after the project to more easily deploy the project going forward.

- Agreed to do the project handover on the next meeting 15/10/2018, which would include a handover document and the application deployed in an always available ec2 instance using AWS.
